House plenary vote on Con-ass bid likely

By GIC-Cabanagan Jr.

PRONOUNCEMENTS OF THE DEATH OF A move in the House of Representatives to amend the Constitution without the participation of the Senate may have been greatly exaggerated.

A majority of the lawmakers still support House Resolution No. 1105 and a plenary vote on the Charter change (Cha-cha) measure is likely in the next two weeks, according to Nueva Ecija Rep. Rodolfo Antonio.

Support for the convening of a constituent assembly (Con-ass) has hardly waned even with the withdrawal of Coordinator Sen. Rep. Luis Villafra from the measure which he himself had initiated. Antonio told the bayon.

He said that bigger players, notably Speaker Prospero Nograles and presidential son, Pangloss Rep. Juan Miguel Arroyo, remained as solid backers of the move to adopt

RP tells Burma rulers: Free Aung San Suu Kyi

By Jerome Aning

THE PHILIPPINES YESTERDAY expressed outrage at the arrest of opposition leader Aung San Suu Kyi of Burma (Myanmar) and demanded her prompt release in an unusually sharp criticism that centered with the official silence of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean).

The latest arrest of Suu Kyi—a Nobel Peace Prize laureate who has spent 13 of the last 10 years under house arrest—has sparked a storm of international appeals to Burma's government to free her and restore democracy in the country, which has been under military rule since 1962.

"The Philippine government is deeply troubled and outraged over the filing of trumped-up charges against Aung San Suu Kyi and her transfer to house prison," Foreign Secretary Alberto Romulo said, referring to the move to jail where she will be held today.

"It is high time for the Burma government to carry out its own

Samar town finds light in caves

By Yell Contreras

DAREL SAMAN—WHEN YOU lose your way in a dark cave, when the lamp finally goes out and you're in the dark, you might as well stop and wait for the light to come and clearly ask God to speak his famous words: "Let there be light."

Not food or water, but light, is said to be the most important thing when exploring caves. Compared to other outdoor adventures, like mountaineering or scuba diving, caving involves with its own set of dangers, mysteries and thrills.

And this town invites you, dare you, to discover them yourself.

For years, Baco's Soboto cave—part of an 180-hectare forest area that was declared a national park in the 1930s—has been drawing a modest stream of tourists, hobbyists, mountaineers and even tourists hunters. Back then, you hire local hunters and guides, lead by your own luck, and try to make it back to the city by nightfall—cha's basically it.

Last week, however, the trip to the caves seemed to be a sin-

Swine flu cases surge in Japan

TOYO, JAPAN—JAPAN HAS announced on Sunday that 39 more people had tested positive for swine flu, bringing the country's total number of cases to 44 and raising fears the new influenza virus may have established a foothold in the western region.

The sudden flu outbreak in Japan's Osaka prefecture and the city of Kobe in adjacent Hyogo prefecture came as senior health officials gathered in Geneva for talks on how to contain the spread of the influenza virus.

Japan's health ministry announced on Sunday afternoon that 12 new cases of swine flu included 11 high school students and a family member in the western prefecture of Hyogo. All tested positive for the virus and are recovering in local hospitals.

Group warns of toxic school supplies

By Nikko Diaz

WITH CLASSES BEGINNING on June 1, an environmental group is urging parents and teachers to find "ecological alternatives" to school supplies made of polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), saying this material contains a toxic ingredient that could affect children's health.

Ecobase Coalition, a public interest group working on chemical safety in the environment, said PVC plastic, also known as vinyl or Plastic No. 3, contained phthalates, a softening agent that has been found out to be poisonous.

"We are particularly uneasy with the extremely unexpected glut of school supplies that are made out of PVC plastic such as backpacks, binders, lunch boxes and clear plastic sheets found on book and notebook

Senate urged to probe Balikatan fund mess

By Christine O. Arcandote and Jocelyn B. Uy

ALON, THE COUNTRY'S MOST probe-conscious political body may have a new issue to tick its to-do list.

Sen. Miriam Defensor Santiago yesterday urged the Senate to investigate the allegations of Mary L. Nancy Gadian that senior officers pocketed more than P40 million in funds intrusted for the RP-US joint military exercises in 2007.

Santiago's call coincided with a warning from the Navy that Gadian, who has gone AWOL (absent without leave), risked infecting her separation benefits if she refused to turn herself in.

In Bala City, Gadian's family said they had been worried for her safety since losing contact

Washington Democracy—inspired progress of reforming political structure," he said. "Fulfilling these commitments is long overdue."
He urged Burma's military rulers to release her for "immediacy and accountability."
The Philippines is a member of ASEAN, along with Burma, Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam.

Indonesia, Singapore and Thailand have also spoken out against Suu Kyi's arrest. Recently, ASEAN members refused to meet without her arrest.
Eccentric American
The 18-month-old group has long been criticized for failing to press Burma to take stronger steps toward democracy in contrast to the tough sanctions which have been imposed by Western nations.

Suu Kyi, a 53-year-old prodemocracy activist, has been held since last week on charges of violating laws aimed at stabilizing an economic American state when she stayed in her house between May 3 and 5. Western reactions also varied.
Suu Kyi faces up to five years in jail if convicted on the charges, which would keep her behind bars during contested elections planned by her supporters for next year.

Suu Kyi had been scheduled to be freed by May 27 after six consecutive years of house arrest.
Told to leave
Suu Kyi's lawyers, Kyi Poo, was allowed to meet privately with her in prison on Saturday.
"She then requested the release from the state after (Suu Kyi) came into the house and how she had asked him to leave the house," Kyi Poo said. She is a term of support under the 1988 constitution in Burma.

On Saturday, Aung Mye Thaw, a key figure for defending political reform, said he was detained from the country's top Council of State but had applied to represent Suu Kyi.

Who is John Tetter?
Recently why Burma news across the lake to see Suu Kyi's situation under the law. Being detained for political reasons but since Burma is not a democracy, it is not clear.

According to John Tetter, Tetter said he was in Asia to work on a psychology paper about the situation.

He described Tetter as a "charismatic" but also as a "strong young man" who is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, commonly known as the Mormons, adding it was unlikely for him to be involved in the situation for the church or because he had been there.

Suu Kyi has been kept in detention for long periods several times since the 1988 uprising.

Burma's rulers have released Suu Kyi's personal driver, The New York Times, a family member of the driver said, speaking on condition of anonymity due to fear of reprisals. The driver was taken from his home by police on May 7, a day after Burma was arrested.

It is not clear why The New York Times was arrested. A spokesperson for Suu Kyi's local League for Democracy (LLD) party said the driver's detention may have been related to the human rights, who has been labeled "hostile" by the prodemocracy movement.

It was not clear if the driver would be allowed to visit Suu Kyi. She was placed on an international day of fast on May 8 because she could not eat, but her blood pressure was not affected.

Text to save Pasig River

TELECOMMUNICATIONS GIANTS GLOBE, Smart and Sun Cellular have come together to support ABS-CBN Foundation's Kapig River Project, a nationwide, text-based, fund-raising campaign to help clean up the Pasig River.

The first telecollaborated communication agreement on May 13 with KBRP led by ABS-CBN Foundation's Gina Lopez, Sun Cellular convinced individuals to contribute to the first clean-up by dialing "2076" (Kapig BLOC) then sending it to 2366 for Globe, Smart Mobile and Sun Cellular, or 222 for Smart and Sun.

The effort will draw forward P1 per text message to the KBRP's telefund for the "Kapig River Project" program initially launched by the Clean and Green Foundation.

"We dream to make the cleaning of the Pasig River a grassroots movement," said Lopez. "We're not just cleaning the river but also the hearts of the people." (The rest of the story on Metro, Page A21.)

"There are one billion text messages a day, I only a fraction of that goes to the Pasig River, we will clean the river," she said.

Privileged and proud

"Globe is very privileged to be part of this endeavor by Gina," said Nemesio. "It thought the idea was better than the money she gave us. It is one way to help society."

"We (as Sun Cellular) are indeed privileged and proud to be part of this worthy endeavor," said Sumangay.

"With our fellow telecos Globe and Sun, we are prepared to join with you, Gina, in making the Pasig a river again—a river of light and life, but so bring life back to Pasig," said Nemesio.

Launched in March 2009, the Pasig River Kapig River Project has received around 100,000 text messages. The campaign also got a boost when different artists agreed to sing the new marches during ABS-CBN's Earth Day celebration on April 22.

'Hit the boss'

"We haven't really gone full swing yet but from today onwards, we (as KBRP) are really going to hit the boss, especially when school starts," Lopez said.

"To give the kids the message, I went to the schools and got the million signatures in three minutes. About 2.5 million of these signatures came from the young. So I'm going to let the schools again together with my team."

"There's no way that we can't do this if we work together," Lopez said. "Smart, Globe and Sun are key players in the public. I really thank them for being our partners."

The Pasig River, which flows through major parts of Metro Manila, has been declared an ecologically dead due to pollution.

Jesus said to his disciples, "You are the light of the world. When you stand on the street, let your light shine before others, so that they may see you and follow you."

"I tell you all this to keep you from sinning and falling away. They will put you to the test, for they will say to you, 'We are not your disciples, for we have not seen you.' So do not let them put you to the test, for you are the light of the world."

Senate probe of Balikatan fund urged

Apparition said she was surprised to learn that the military was not a concern. "I don't think they will do anything to investigate whether these funds are from the Philippines or the United States, but more importantly are the allegations correct?" she said after Gadsan, or her senior officers, had not denied any wrongdoing, were asked to resign. "I think, the allegations should be looked into by the Senate, it should."

Protest whistle-blowers

Sen. Rodolfo Biazon, chair of the Senate national defense committee, said his committee would launch an inquiry "depending on" the assessment of the reports about what happened while he said he hoped to get from the military and Navy Gadsan.

Biazon said that during a July 2006 hearing, Gadsan was accused by a local radio station host, the Navy officer accused her allegations of funds misuse by top Western Philippines Command officials, including retired Lt. Gen. Eugenio Cacho, who has denied any wrongdoing.

Sen. Loren Legarda said the government should protect whistle-blowers if it was really intent on fighting graft and corruption.

"If possible, they should be included in the national protection program in order to enable them to freely discuss the allegations in government transactions," Legarda said in a statement.

She added: "We should understand that there is greater public interest in cleaning a government agency of corruption than in going after specific individuals for 'whistle-blowing.' This is what we should concentrate on the case of Hery Li. Hery Gadsan, who could be performing a public service."

99-day period

The Philippine News spokesperson, Lt. Col. Roldan Arce, said Gadsan would be removed based on the state of the Armed Forces of the Philippines—or which due to a 99-day deadline his resignation—over the 99-day period provided for in the law on that to neither his report.

"It will be his decision from the rally, that they position him before the what could have been his resignation," Arce said. "It will be his decision from the rally."

The 99-day period began on April 22 following a 30-day leave. On May 11, no apprehension order was issued against her for dismissal.

Gadsan has accused Cacho, then chief of the Western Philippines Command, and several military officials of pocketing a huge chunk of the P45 million in funds allocated for the annual memorial two-year program.

Gadsan, who was in charge of 99-day military operations during the Balikatan exercise, said his funds last week with P2.3 million of the funds was disbursed to Philippine troops.

Follow procedures

Arce said that Gadsan was not in a position to resign as a military officer.

"I said the program of the 'apprehension order' issued against her was for her to continue in military control and explain why she failed to go back to work."

He added that any soldier was required to go through military procedures when leaving from the service, which include submission of documents and the signature of the President.

Gadsan has said she left the military service when she filed her resignation on April 15.

But Arce said Gadsan's resignation could not be acted upon due to an ongoing investigation of cases against her before the Ethics and Discipline Board.

Gadsan is being investigated by the military board for improper bank spending and in subordination—charges she has denied.

Arce's report Gadsan is now on the spot with her defense and source of general slightly involved in the funds misuse in order to put a "temporary closure" to the controversy. AFP Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Victor Biazon said he would continue to monitor the case and give her the opportunity to defend herself.

"We don't discuss this kind of controversy," he said, while she has ordered a comprehensive investigation to be conducted by the military.

Whistle-blower's kin fear for her safety

BLIND CITY—THE FAMES OF Hery Li, Hery Gadsan, has reported that her safety is in jeopardy.

"We are all very worried and for what might happen to her," Gadsan's sister said.

Her brother, Hery Gadsan, said in a telephone interview on Sunday.

Gadsan said the last time she heard from her sister was on Friday when she sent a text message of around 8:30 a.m. following her last time was already an order for her arrest.

In her message, Gadsan said she would be leaving off her cell phone to avoid any further investigation.

"We have been heard from her since and we don't know where she is and what has happened to her," Gadsan said.

Gadsan, 41, has previously given media interviews by phone but has not disclosed her location. Her cell phone remained off as of 10 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Her brother, Hery Gadsan, said he and his sister had contacted her resignation from the service effective May 1.

No remark

Armed Forces spokesperson Lt. Col. Roldan Arce said he could not comment on the allegations of her safety, saying she would be removed from duty.

Arce said he did not have a comment for Gadsan and that a special team has been formed to investigate her.

He said he would be looking for the safety of her sister, she said.

was wary of the statements. He claimed the military's phone call on Sunday night from a "very credible source" saying a "threat to her safety" had been issued for her sister.

Gadsan refused to identify her source.

Plan for prayer

Prayer will be held in Western Visayas have seen removal of official communication to her and across Gadsan, said Lt. Col. Roldan Arce, spokesman, public information officer of the Army's 2nd Infantry Division.

Gadsan sought the help of the public for her sister's safety. "I am calling on the people, especially the religious groups, to pray for the safety of my sister," she said.

Swine flu cases surge in Japan

Earlier Monday, the military confirmed cases, all teenagers except for two—another and a college student—at several high schools in Hyogo and nearby Osaka.

Japan's government confirmed its first case in case of swine flu. The military's first four cases were contracted outside the country.

"Doping these confirmed cases in Japan, the intention is likely to be spreading to hundreds of people," Japanese vice prime minister Yukio Tanaka said public broadcast on NHK.

"There must be a number of people who slipped through border controls (in airports) as their symptoms were quite light, passing the virus to other people before they knew it," he added.

Tanaka was speaking from Osaka, where the World Health Organization (WHO) annual assembly will begin today with the global outbreak of swine flu expected to continue this season.

39 countries infected

Nearly 8,000 people in 39 countries have been infected with the new flu virus, according to the latest figures released by the WHO. Cases confirmed during the weekend in Thailand and India have been included in the tally.

At least 75 people have died from the virus—all of them in the Americas and nearly all of them in Mexico, where the new strain of swine flu was first detected last March in a small town.

After WHO Assistant Director General Nara Palanisami said that studies indicate a "significant number of people" have been infected but their cases had either not yet been detected or continued by laboratory tests.

A motion has been taken to put the WHO's annual assembly on hold for 12 to 15 days, so that people affected are not away from their duties at home for too long.

Most of the WHO's annual assembly would be held in a small town in Mexico, but the WHO's annual assembly would be held in a small town in Mexico, but the WHO's annual assembly would be held in a small town in Mexico.

Mexican President Felipe Calderon said his country had given the WHO a sample of the virus on Saturday along with historical and clinical data on the evolution of the virus.

Authorities in Mexico state they are on the way to containing the outbreak. The health ministry said it is a "small number of cases" in "small number of cases, usually in a small number of cases."

Emergency meeting

"We specify need to select information from the 'small number of cases' and Chief Cabinet Secretary Yukio Tanaka said the top government officials.

"We are studying how to prevent the spread of infection," Tanaka said in a presser, adding that the Cabinet would hold an emergency meeting on Monday to discuss the issue.

Prime Minister Tanaka called on the military to remain alert.

But Shigeru Oda, a former WHO official who is now head of the Japan's swine flu task force, warned: "We believe that the infection is beginning to spread in the region."

The WHO said its laboratory is now closely monitoring the virus in Japan after officials said dozens of schools and universities public events in Tokyo, where people with the symptoms were seeking treatment at local hospitals.

"I had never dreamed that the new virus in our country would happen in my city," said Saito Kage, a 62-year-old construction company worker.

"We've not seen more cases, we have to speed up the pace for now," he said.

Earlier this month, Japan confirmed its first case of swine flu—a school teacher and three students who flew to Tokyo from Canada last month. These people have since recovered.

The WHO has not yet recommended travel restrictions to curb the spread of the virus, but has advised people who is feeling unwell to postpone their trips. AFP

Moro rebels seize, free 20 villagers

TOURONG CITY—MORO REBELS SEIZED 20 people from a remote village in Latak town in Sultan Kudat province, and held them for about 12 hours before setting them free early Saturday, the military said.

34 Col. Jonathan Ponce, spokesperson of the 1st Infantry Division, said at least 20 ethnic Ibaloi, 12 from the Front MILF guerrillas, were taken down in Bank village at around 7 p.m. on Friday, and seized commercial establishments and took the villagers to the village.

The rebels were led by Agulo Calang and Bobby Loring of the MILF's 19th State Command, Ponce said.

"They also are on the four hours and took 20 from our unit before fleeing with the hostages," he said.

"After 12 hours, they also took their hostages. We are thankful that the civilians were not harmed by the rebels," he said.

Ponce said the rebels used the civilians as human shields during the gunning troops.

"This rebels knew that we cannot just open fire at them so they took the civilians to human shields. We have rules of engagement that we cannot attack unless we have people as hostages," he said.

Ponce said the latest attack showed that the MILF had one of its field commanders, a danger that is still spiking in the area.

Aside from missing Bank village, the rebels also burned down a village in Davao del Norte, North Cotabato, he said.

"Luckily, no one was hurt or killed," he added.

3rd Lt. Kalika MILF said only one other shot, and the Latak violence was the climax of a feud between Calang, now Calang in Ponce had reported, and Bobby Loring of the 19th State Command. After the Front MILF.

He said Calang's group came under attack from the 1st Infantry Division in April.

Last month, Calang's group of against the 1st Infantry Division and the violence spread to other villages, Latak said.

Kalika also said the military was exploiting the situation to make it appear that MILF was in a campaign, "which is not the case."

"This is a conflict between two groups and the military was only to put up a good light," he said. Jeffrey Maculan with a report from Charlie Seaton, Singapore, Singapore.

BK Whoppers turn back Giants

By Phasing R. Castillo

AFTER WINNING A CRUCIAL GAME, Burger King now has to survive a testing game.

"It is not of our hands right now," coach Yang Gueco declared last night, when the Whoppers closed out their elimination round with a 96-86 victory over Freebirds yesterday at the Cebu National Center in view of the running for an outright First Round slot in the 2007 FIBA Asia Cup.

But all the stars and players have to align themselves with Burger King as the Whoppers don't have their deadliest weapon in their hands at the moment.

Amelito Salas shot 22 points and Raulo Aho came off the bench to add 12 in 12 as the Whoppers finished with an 86 win which is good for second place behind Freebirds or Titans.

The 2007 FIBA Asia Cup aimed the services of the lines between January and July 2007.

"We will not do it because the competition is too tough and we are not ready," Salas added. "The things we cannot control, we just have to leave them as that. We're going to play with the same team as last time."

Salas played like a star in a new place in Cebu, scoring 22 points, after his 14-point performance in the 2007 FIBA Asia Cup.

The Titans were defeated in a defeat in just one game and the Whoppers in second place after losing to the Titans in a 100-90 loss. Salas played like a star in a new place in Cebu, scoring 22 points, after his 14-point performance in the 2007 FIBA Asia Cup.

PUP goes green to save Pasig River

By OYip

GREEN IS THE NEW SCHOOL color of Polytechnic University of the Philippines (PUP), according to organizers of Kapag Bida Pasig sa Baga Pasig which has launched a recycling facility on campus, the first of its kind in Metro Manila.

Kapag Bida, a partnership between PUP-USA Foundation and the Pasig River Pollution Control Commission (PRPCC), recently opened a material recovery facility on PUP's Manila campus as part of efforts to reduce the volume of garbage dumped in the river.

In a statement, Atsuko Usuki, the school's director for administrative services, said the newly-installed MRF will be "a great managed property by the university." The PUP Manila campus is located in this area, Manila along the Pasig River.

Youth 'loy' to saving river

Elmer Lopez, managing director of ABC-CDN Foundation, emphasized the role and importance of the youth in maintaining the river, saying they are the "loy" in saving the body of water.

Still no suspect in woman's brutal killing

By OYip

POLICE STILL HAVE NO SUSPECTS in the brutal killing of a 40-year-old woman at a busy intersection in Pasig City last Tuesday.

Senior Supt. Ramon de Jesus, Pasig police chief, said his men were seeking another man "one and eight" on orders of Lethra Police officer director. Chief Supt. Ramon de Jesus, Pasig police chief, said his men were seeking another man "one and eight" on orders of Lethra Police officer director.

He added that the police put off their inquiries until Lethra had been located.

Alfonso Gargolosa, deputy executive director of PRPCC, said the MRF would help them deal with solid waste thrown into the river.

"When we are floating around Pasig River, we see the plastic and other, these are the solid waste which constitute about 30 percent of the pollution in the river," he added.

He said operations of such MRFs would be used for the project will make use of products to collect garbage from households.

Biodegradable, ecofriendly

Collected biodegradable wastes such as kitchen waste are fed into a biogas plant to produce a compost and vermicompost, while non-biodegradable wastes such as plastic and Styrofoam are segregated, then sent to landfills and the government.

The processed non-biodegradable waste can then be recycled into useful products such as bricks, papers and table tops, which can be a source of livelihood for the indigent residents, Gargolosa said.

The Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) Secretary Lim Aranan has signed a memorandum of agreement with ABC-CDN Foundation to manage the rehabilitation of Pasig River and its tributaries.

Livable habitat

The goal is to revive the water within seven years on their fish and shellfish can be propagated, the habitat can be made for wildlife, and people can enjoy and enjoy around it, Gargolosa said.

The PRPCC operates the six-month-old facility that serves the Pasig River. It has collected about 7,000 tonnes of different waste materials, according to the organization, who said they hope to reduce 4,000 more tonnes.

STREET ART

Children and their parents draw flowers as they participate in yesterday's street art competition in Pasig City, among the activities celebrating Metrobank's founding anniversary.

Smart RP five seeks semis vs tall Qatar

By Anne Mangen

MANILA—FROM A TEAM WITH LITTLE EXPECTATIONS, THE Philippines has started to raise the bar with an eye on the ultimate prize in the South Asian Games Championships.

The Janet Glen Higgins memorial train arrived in growing numbers as a life controversy with a 90-91 win over Dakota of Forest Saturday night after making by 30 points in the first half.

"We're a very young team and I'm not expecting this us to go into the playoffs," said 19-year-old Rajon Rondo after the Celtics closed out their elimination round campaign versus second-seed

PH. PATRICK McKEOWN (Brian McGeehan) in the Camerlengo at night.

PH. ARMANDO GIANFRANCO (Tom Hanks, private life) in a room in the Vatican City in the movie.

'Angels & Demons' . . .

(Tom Hanks) is summoned to Vatican City to investigate a long-entire secret society called the Illuminati and its connection with the murder of a respected physicist and the disappearance of the four popes, who are the candidates considered to be the most likely candidates to succeed the recently deceased Pope.

He also discovers that a powerful bank capable of leveling Rome or Rome has been stolen and planted by the Illuminati somewhere within the Vatican to eliminate and manipulate its anti-semitic the Catholic Church.

(Despite pressure from the Camerlengo, the Vatican's highest official, the Pope's side of the fight, in the Vatican City, due to the bank's theft, the Pope's side of the fight is not as strong as it is in the city to elect a new Pope.)

Meanwhile, Langdon, together with the help of Vittoria Beltrami (Alicia Vikander), the beautiful Italian partner of the murdered physicist, are off on a wild hunt through ancient cathedrals, profane catacombs, ancient ruins, and even the most sacred vault in the world, in an attempt to decipher ancient codes and clues which could possibly be the Vatican's last hope of survival.

Changes

Although the novel is a prequel to "The Da Vinci Code," the film is placed as a sequel to the first movie as evidenced by the fact that between Langdon and the Catholic Church, and as in the novel, "Angels & Demons" has a far simpler and more straightforward plot compared to the first film. The movie's main premise—a ticking time bomb set by the Illuminati, an ancient cult of symbols to follow, and four kidnapped scientists who are killed by their captors at each hour—was very old-fashioned but highly engaging. The various locations throughout Rome are also very impressive even though most of them were not in actual films.

There are also slight differences in the names and characters between the book and the film. The murdered physicist in the film, Silvano Bertignoni, is named Leonardo Berra in the book, who is also the adoptive father of Vittoria Berra.

In the film, the Camerlengo's name is Patrick, while in the book he is Carlo Ventresca. The film does not reserve the very glowing name of Berra in the book: "The Camerlengo, in the direct papal side and the administration of the Vatican, holds the rank of cardinal and is therefore as young as the cardinal—our McGeehan in the novel—just trying not to be a troublemaker."

Another noticeable element present in the book but absent in the film is the religious aspect of the Pope, which is a point through which the movie has been removed due to the controversy it may have.

Although there is virtually no time for characterisation due to the fast-paced action, Tom Hanks is very convincing and infectious in Langdon, the Camerlengo is also right on the mark in his role as the brutal and complex Camerlengo.

Age-old war

The film provides insights into the age-old war between science and religion. It presents science as dangerously lacking the power of creation while at the same time showing the reverence of religion and the power of faith.

The conflict is embodied in the war of wits between Langdon and the Camerlengo. The former represents the objective view of science while the latter portrays the strict dogmatic and dogmatic of the Church. "Angels & Demons" is a highly entertaining movie that combines its genre material. While delving into the ancient secret organizations and conspiracies working to destroy the Catholic Church, it also effectively warns against the dangerous forces that are working together with the angels even in the hidden places such as the Vatican.

THE CAMERLENGO (McGeehan) destroys the Pope's church.

Twinbill production at UP Cine Adarna

ARI, MARAGON'S "BROTHERS IN ARMS" is an adaptation of Lillian Hellman's "Children's Hour." Set in 1934 to an all-girl boarding school, it's about a parent that secretly conceals two best friends who are allegedly having a lesbian affair. "Lila," meanwhile, is a fictionalized version of Lillian Hellman's "Lila," about young gay men in 1934 Berlin and their struggle to keep their relationship in a conservative society.

In the twinbill production of "PRODIGY" featuring "Dancing Queen" and "Lila," the Philippine High School for the Arts (PHSA) Lila Hellman leads back an age-old tradition and continues the work of men and women caught up in a sexually charged and sexually-charged world. Archival footage, set and production design by Tanya Maragon leads the PHSA.

Another film in the twinbill production is "WILDERNESS," which runs at the UP Cine Adarna, UP Film Center, on May 18, 21, 22 and 23, 8 p.m. The show is co-presented by the University of the Philippines Film Institute (UPFI).

"Children's Hour" was adapted into film in 1941 by William Wyler, starring Bette Davis, Joan Crawford and James Stewart. "Lila" was filmed in 1997 by Anne Hildebrand with Mark Jorgensen, Michael and Julie Lee.

Tickets are at P200 each. For inquiries and reservations, call 0927-9603422 (The Phoenix), 0917-5600728 (Lila) or 0921-3299999 (UP Cine Adarna).

Contrary acting styles mar 'BFF'

When it comes to acting, the two women in BFF couldn't be more different. In the first episode, the two women, played by Grey's Anatomy's Tina Fey and Mad Men's Felicity Jones, are introduced as best friends who have been together since high school. Fey, who plays the more outgoing and confident of the two, is a former child star who has since become a successful actress. Jones, who plays the more reserved and introverted of the two, is a former child star who has since become a successful actress.

The two women's contrasting acting styles are a key element of the show's appeal. Fey's performance is characterized by a confident and outgoing demeanor, while Jones' performance is characterized by a more reserved and introverted demeanor. This contrast in acting styles is a key element of the show's appeal, as it allows the two women to play off each other in a way that is both entertaining and compelling.

The show's premise is simple: two women, Fey and Jones, who have been best friends since high school, are introduced as best friends who have been together since high school. Fey, who plays the more outgoing and confident of the two, is a former child star who has since become a successful actress. Jones, who plays the more reserved and introverted of the two, is a former child star who has since become a successful actress.
